Outcome

The objective of the FDP is to familiarize the faculty members with new approaches to teaching critical thinking, such as problem-based learning, case studies, and other active learning methods that promote critical thinking. It aids the faculty to adopt new teaching methodologies and strategies that are specifically tailored to the language learning needs of engineering students. It also gives a brief insight on the intersection of teaching and cognition, which would aid in understanding students.
Event Summary

The Department of English organized an FDP, titled "Exploring the Intersection of Teaching and Cognition" from 15.05.2023 to 19.05.2023, from 11.00 am to 12.00 noon, through zoom platform. The objective of the 5 -day FDP is to enlighten the faculty members on new teaching strategies and expose them to various learning strategies to accommodate the digital natives. Dr. M.
